DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 1-20 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-18 of U.S. Patent No. 6,843,298 B1. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because although the patent claims are directed to an apparatus and the application claims are directed to a system, the claims in both the application and patent contain nearly identical limitations and are merely obvious variations of one another. In addition, the positive recitation of a "carrier" in the application claims is obviated by the fact that heating element in the patent claims has to be capable of receiving this "carrier". Also, the "fixture having workpiece-separating teeth" in the application claims is obviated by the fact that the detainment mechanism is essentially the fixture in both the application and patent claims, wherein in the patent claims state the "workpiece-separating teeth" are part of the detainment mechanism, yet the detainment mechanism in and of itself still constitutes the fixture having workpiece separating teeth. Finally, since the patent claims describe an apparatus that is nearly identical to the system of the application claims, therefore the patent claims are more than capable of handling workpieces that are pico-sized slider rows as presented in the application claims.

Conclusion
